1796 (ctd.)

Eastern District

Daniel Buck [Federalist]	2,931	97.1%
Scattering	88	2.9%
Total votes cast	3,019	100.0%

1797

Eastern District (May 23, 1797, Special Election)[2]

Lewis R. Morris [Federalist]	1,033	56.9%
Stephen Jacob [Federalist]	246	13.6%
Rep. Nathaniel Niles [Democratic Republican]	203	11.2%
Amasa Paine [Federalist]	119	6.6%
Scattering	214	11.8%
Total votes cast	1,815	100.0%

[2] According to a letter from Governor Thomas Chittenden to Treasurer Samuel Mattocks dated April 6, 1797 (MsVtSP, Vol. 24, p. 182), Daniel Buck refused to serve another term in Congress, necessitating a new election.

1798

Western District*

Matthew Lyon [Democratic Republican]	3482	49.8%
Samuel Williams [Federalist]	1544	22.1%
Daniel Chipman [Federalist]	1370	19.6%
Abel Spencer [Federalist]	268	3.8%
Israel Smith [Democratic Republican]	236	3.4%
Gideon Olin	22	0.3%
Samuel Hitchcock	16	0.2%
Jonas Galusha	14	0.2%
Moses Robinson	8	0.1%
Jonathan Robinson	6	0.1%
Scattering	19	0.3%
Total votes cast	6,985	100.0%

Western District (December 4, 1798, New Election)

Matthew Lyon [Democratic Republican]	3026	51.7%
Samuel Williams [Federalist]	2344	40.0%
Israel Smith [Democratic Republican]	428	7.3%
Scattering	55	0.9%
Total votes cast	5,853	100.0%

Eastern District

Lewis R. Morris [Federalist]	3,220	85.0%
Scattering	568	15.0%
Total votes cast	3,788	100.0%

1800

Western District

Israel Smith [Democratic Republican]	4,556	64.6%
Daniel Chipman [Federalist]	2,494	35.4%
Total votes cast	7,050	100.0%

Eastern District*

Lewis R. Morris [Federalist]	879	24.9%
Nathaniel Niles [Democratic Republican]	872	24.7%
Amasa Paine [Federalist]	552	15.6%
Steven Jacobs [Federalist]	397	11.3%
William Chamberlin [Federalist]	374	10.6%
Lott Hall [Federalist]	195	5.5%
Scattering	259	7.3%
Total votes cast	3,528	100.0%

Eastern District (December 2, 1800, New Election)

Lewis R. Morris [Federalist]	1,529	56.8%
Nathaniel Niles [Democratic Republican]	699	26.0%
Amasa Paine [Federalist]	341	12.7%
William Chamberlin [Federalist]	124	4.6%
Total votes cast	2,693	100.0%